William Bynner Campbell

At the moment of going to press comes word of the death of William B. Campbell, a member of the executive committee of the American Institute of Accountants.

William Bynner Campbell, executive senior partner of the firm of Price, Waterhouse & Co., died on June twenty-second at St. Luke's Hospital, New York, at the age of 52, after a prolonged illness.

Mr. Campbell was a member of the council of the American Institute of Accountants and at various times served on the Institute's most important committees, notably as chairman of the special committee on coöperation with bankers. For six successive years (1922-1928) he was a member of the Institute's board of examiners. He was also a member of the board of directors of the New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants and held C. P. A. certificates of New York and several other states. During the world war he served with distinction in the treasury department in Washington.

Mr. Campbell was born on November 21, 1881, at Heaton Norris, Stockport, England. In 1905 he became a member of the Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales and during the following year went to Toronto, Canada, and later to Buffalo, New York. In January, 1911, he joined the staff of Price, Waterhouse & Co., in Chicago. In 1917 he was admitted to partnership in the firm in charge of the Detroit office, and in 1927, at the age of 45, he became executive senior partner in New York, a position which he held at the time of his death.

Mr. Campbell came of an old Scottish family, founded by one of Robert Bruce's soldiers. The family estate is "Dalhanna," Cummock, Ayrshire, Scotland. He is survived by his wife, Jessie Campbell, and three sons, William Bynner, Jr., Hugh Morgan and David Arthur Campbell, all of Great Neck, also by a sister, Mrs. Charles Reynolds of Buffalo, New York, and a brother, Thomas Campbell of Bahia Blanca, Brazil.

Funeral services were held at Community house, Great Neck, Long Island, on June 23rd. Interment was at Braceville, Illinois.
